

Why Is Summer Dangerous for Driving in Pensacola?

1 Teenage Drivers

Teens don't have the experience necessary to react properly to all that driving can throw at them. There is nothing that can be done about this other than getting a few years of driving under their belts, making teens some of the most dangerous drivers on the road.

2 Vacation Congestion

Florida roads offer a set of challenges that tourists may not be ready for. As residents, we know the nuances of our roadways. We can't expect the same from out-of-towners. Watch out for unpredictable driving and people driving too slowly if you want to avoid having a car accident in Pensacola.

3 Tire Troubles

Hot weather can be tough on tires. If your wheels are not in great shape, the expanding air inside of them can cause blowouts. Even a single bald spot can mean a disastrous blowout in a heat wave (or Florida summer weather in general).

4 Road Construction

If you come upon a work zone, slow down. You will see a different speed limit posted, so be sure to obey it. Speeding through a work zone isn't only dangerous to you and the people in your vehicle, but to others on the road and the construction workers as well.

5 Fatigue

Whether we have to get to work after a restless night or are driving home after a long day, fatigued driving is a real problem. That problem can be compounded by the heat of the summer. The sun can dehydrate the body, even if you are in the car. Make sure that you are drinking plenty of water and, if you can help it, avoid driving during the hottest times of the day.
